

Welcome to the inaugural Carolina Challenge!

The state of North Carolina, from the mountains to the coast, is loaded with potential college basketball players. Eight months ago, an idea was birthed to bring the top talent from around the state under one roof. Today, I'm happy to announce that 80 of the state's most promising players are participating in this one-of-a-kind event!

This one day camp is special to me, my family, our friends and the basketball community in our state. Thanks for joining us!

While the talent in our state is on display today, we also want to emphasize some of the purposes for bringing these players together. March 24th is not only a day of competition it's a day of education.

The theme, "Are You Recruitable," encompasses so many aspects of the experience we want to share with these young men. Not only is it our intention to provide an outstanding competitive environment, we also want to share a little insight with the players.

Who you are both on and off the court will play an integral role in the development of our kids. Talent and ability are facets of playing college basketball. Too many times the role of academics gets lost in the shuffle. We want to develop a sense of urgency in the classroom. Waiting until your senior year to evaluate your transcript, get serious about your grades and focus in the classroom is a recipe for disaster.

In college basketball, image and perception are powerful tools. Our goal is to emphasize to our in-state kids the importance of developing a strong value and support system in an effort to not only make positive decisions but help build a foundation of character.

Basketball should be seen as a vehicle to a free education. The serious prospects need to get serious about their futures both on and off the court. By inviting non-seniors to this event it's our quest to create a sense of urgency for the kids as students, citizens and players. We cannot let the game of basketball use our kids for their talents alone.

We want everyone, friends and family included, to help spread the message to the kids and make the 80 players here and beyond recruitable college athletes!

Best wishes,

Dave, Paige and Michael Telep
